Fryling Heads Affordable Housing Projects

Bath Township, MI; Portage, MI . (March 9, 2009) Doing what they do best, Fryling Construction announces the new construction of two affordable housing projects in Michigan. As a proud MSHDA and HUD specialist, Fryling Construction heads the MSHDA development, Hawk Ridge Apartments in Bath Township, and a HUD project in Portage named Gladys Street Apartments.

The Hawk Ridge Development started construction last August of 2008 and plan to be complete by the end of August 2009. Excel Properties, returning to Fryling for the ninth time, is the developer for the new 12.3 acre community that will include 13 apartment buildings and a Clubhouse. Fryling will be constructing 8 units within each building, and an additional two-story senior living facility. Designed by Economides Architects, the residential neighborhood will fit comfortably in the quaint township of Bath.

The Lift Foundation and Phoenix Properties also returning to Fryling for a new development in Portage off the street it fosters its name from, Gladys Street. Fryling Construction is proud to announce the Gladys Street Apartments have broke ground and are set to complete within 6 months. Kiefer and Kurtz Architects designed the 10 independent living units along with the 1,000 square foot common area. The new community will be near many shops and restaurants making an ideal location for walkers and bikers.
